HISTORICAL SPEECH.

With Which Cromwell Turned Parliament Into the Streets.

The speech with which Cromwell turned Parliament out of doors in 1653 has come to light through the researches of Dr. Wolfgang Mitchell, and there is strong evidence that it is authentic. It was this: "It is high time for me to put an end to your sitting in this place, which ye have dishonored by your practice of every vice. Ye are a factious crew and enemies of all good government. Ye are a pack of mercenary wretches, and would—like Esau—sell your country for a mess of pottage, and—like Judas—betray your God for a few pieces of money. Is there a single virtue now among you? Is there one vice ye do not possess? Ye have no more religion than my horse. Gold is your god. Which of you have not bartered away your conscience for bribes? Is there a man among you that has the least care for the good of the commonwealth? Ye sordid prostitutes! have ye not defiled this sacred place, and turned the Lord's temple into a den of thieves? By your immoral principles and wicked practices ye are grown intolerably odious to the whole nation. You, who were deputed here by the people to get their grievances redressed, are yourselves become their greatest grievance. Your country, therefore, calls upon me to cleanse this Augean stable by putting a final period to your iniquitous proceedings in this House, and which, by God's help, and the strength he has given me, I am now come to do: I command you, therefore, upon peril of your lives, to go! Get you out! Make haste! Ye venal slaves, begone! Soh! Take away that shining bauble there and lock up the door."—Ex.

The above speech is too perspicuous for Cromwell. It sounds more like the invention of a reporter in a reminiscent mood.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

A MODEL CHINESE HUSBAND—HIS WIFE SEEKING DIVORCE.

Proposition to Build a Coast Line of Railway from Portland to San Francisco—Crimes and Accidents—A Sane Woman Placed in a Lunatic Asylum.

ALLENTOWN, Penn., May 8.—This morning a New Jersey Central Express train ran into a Lehigh Valley passenger train in this city. One lady passenger was killed, and five or six others injured, but not seriously.

Postmaster-General Clarkson Resigns.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 8.—Assistant postmaster-general Clarkson is on his way to Des Moines, Ia, to attend the funeral of his father. Clarkson said that he had definitely decided to leave the postal department on July 1st.

Singer Machine Factory Burnt.

ELIZABETH PORT, May 8.—The entire west front of the Singer sewing machine factory was gutted by fire last night. The flames worked a way into the main building cleaning out the stock of needles, finishing and adjusting inspection and the milling rooms. The pattern department was destroyed together with 5000 finished machines and 18,000,000 needles. Loss $2,000,000, fully insured. All work has been suspended thus throwing 3000 employees out of work.

Chinese in Transit.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Collector Phelps received telegraphic instructions to-day from the Secretary of Treasury Windom as to the disposition of in transit Chinese on the steamer from China which is expected to arrive from Hongkong on Friday. The Secretary directs the collector to permit all in transit Chinese aboard the steamer who purchased their tickets before the receipt at Hongkong of his recent ruling, to proceed on their journey to Mexican points. All who purchased their tickets after that date must be denied the rigat to leave the ship. This will probably lead to some confusion as unless the tickets show their facs dates when purchased there will be no way of telling what Chinese should be landed.

A Long Walk.

DENVER, Col., May 7.—A special to Republican says: "J. S. Harriman, who is trying to walk from Wabash, Indiana, to San Francisco within 65 days on a wager of $10,000, arrived here at 7 o'clock this evening. He is now 1,498 miles from his starting point and 320 miles ahead of schedule time. Since his last rest at Dodge City, he has covered in a day and a half 150 miles. His average has been about 90 miles in 24 hours. This is his half-way point, and he is awaiting orders from his manager, whom he left at Coolidge, Kan., to secure fresh horses.

"Accompanying him on horseback are Messrs. Drummond, Gebhard and McDonald. Fourteen horses have already played out, unable to stand the strain. His route from here will be via La Junta and Trinidad. He is looking well and shows no appearance of fatigue, although he has lost 12 pounds in flesh since he started.

The Ice Crop Destroyed.

TRUCKEE, CAL, May 8.—Warm rains for the past twenty-four hours have melted the snows and sent them in irresistible floods into the Truckee river. The dam at the marble works near Verdi, went out to-day, as did also the dams at Camps Twenty, Marti Creek and Rocky Run. Four feet of water is reported in Rocky Run icehouse, completely ruining the ice crop. The railroad embankment at Rocky Run is in serious danger, and the work train and a large force of men are busy there.

Coast Line Road.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 8.—A proposition to build a coast-line railway from Portland to Lower California is at present occupying the attention of capitalists on the Pacific coast. Albert Houghton, of San Francisco, a member of the syndicate, was a passenger on the limited express train this morning. "I am going to New York," he said, "to endeavor to introduce capitalists in the project. Our company has been formed, but it is not yet named. It probably will be called the California Coast Line Railway Co. I will, while in the east, carefully inquire into the question of freight, with a view of ascertaining what amount of business we could expect from that section.

Water Still Rising.

STOCKTON, Cala., May 8.—Reports from Union Island to-day are that no trouble is feared with the present outlook. The water is eight feet above low water mark and three inches higher than ever before known on Union Island. The levees can stand a foot and one-half more of water, but the wind makes considerable washing which has to be watched. One hundred and fifty men are watching the levees around a district of 1200 acres of new reclamation work which is only a section where trouble is feared.

The Ring.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Jake Kilrain has written a letter to Frank Stevenson stating that he will meet Joe McAuliffe in a twenty-rounds glove contest at the Puritan Club.

A MODEL CHINAMAN.

He Marries a White Girl But Keeps Mongolian Customs.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—Mrs Yan Fon Lee, the young New Haven girl who in 1887 married Yan Fon Lee shortly after his graduation from Yale, has filed a petition for divorce, alleging adultery. Yan Fon Lee is the son of a Chinese nobleman. He came to this country in 1873, and after spending five years at Springfield, Mass., he prepared for college in New Haven. After graduating Lee did considerable literary work, and recently started an English-Chinese Sunday school paper in New York city.

Mrs. Lee was formerly Miss Elizabeth Maude Jerome, daughter of Mrs. E. Gilbert Jerome of Gilbert avenue.

Yan Fon Lee passed through Portland last winter on his way east from San Francisco, where he had been employed in a bank. He greatly preferred the people of the New England States, where he was greatly petted by people of culture. He attained some fame on the lecture platform, and is the author of the popular book, "When I was a boy in China."

LOCKED UP AS CRAZY.

A Sane Woman Placed in an Asylum by Her Husband—Investigation.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Mrs. A. M. Beach of 310 Washington street, Hoboken, told Prosecutor Winfield a remarkable story yesterday. Her husband is an employee of the Deleware, Lackawanna and Western R. R. Co. Some months ago she declares he told her that he had business at Morristown and invited her to accompany him. She gladly accepted the invitation, and they boarded the train. Casually she observed that his tickets were for Morris Plains. "Why," she said to him, "I thought we were going to Morristown?" "That's all right" he answered, "Morris Plains is the station this side, and we will stop there on our way so that I may attend to a little business there." Suspecting nothing the wife said no more. When the train reached Morris Plains she was hurried into a carriage and driven rapidly to the State Asylum there. At the door her husband produced a certificate of her insanity, and she was hustled into a cell in spite of her protest that she was sane and that the manner of her imprisonment was an outrage. She managed to let her father know and he entered himself to secure her release. He did not succeed in freeing her, however, until she had been imprisoned for a month. She learned that the certificate on which she had been received into the asylum had been signed by Dr. Atwell, a physician, and by City Physician Simon. Her father says that Dr. Atwell had not seen her for two months before he signed the certificate and that Dr. Simon never saw her. Dr. Simon admits that he never met her, and says he signed the certificate because it had been signed by Dr. Atwell, and he had besides learned from the police and her neighbors that she was crazy. Prosecutor Winfield will bring the case to the attention of the grand jury.

MUST SEEK A NEW FIELD.

British Emigrants Find America Nearly Full—Surprising Figures.

LONDON, May 6.—The statement that only about 100,000 square miles of land suitable for settlement by emigrants remains in the United States has come like a revelation to Englishmen, most of whom have been clinging to the belief that America was only half settled. The statement referred to has just been made before a select committee of the House of Commons on colonization, together with the announcement that in Australia there are 500,000 square miles, and in Manitoba 400,000 suitable for colonizing purposes.

The records show that since 1815, 12,500,000 people have left the United Kingdom, and of these 9,000,000 since 1853, of which 7,000,000 were of British and Irish origin. Two-thirds of these emigrants went to the United States, whose population, if it increased in the same ratio as in the past 100 years, would be, at the end of another 100 years, 1,000,000,000, or about 500 persons per square mile of the habitable portions of the country.

Since 1876, against 3,000,000 British people who have emigrated, there have been not quite 1,000,000 immigrants into this country. The total immigration has amounted to about one-half the excess of births over deaths.

This array of figures has convinced the committee that emigration from the British isles is no longer as desirable as formerly, and the committee will recommend in their report that stimulated and assisted immigration be discontinued, except to Australia.

CONTRACTORS' LABORERS.

TO THE EDITOR:—I see by your issue of the 6th inst., a statement that a contractor of this city had been subjected to a great deal of inconvenience by his white laborers getting drunk. Kindly allow me through your columns to state the facts as told to me by one who worked on the job. It appears that this contractor (who has had trouble getting men) paid one of his laborers $2.50 per day, for the week ending April 26th, and without telling the man he was incompetent or anything to that effect, allowed him to work another week, when he (the contractor) would only pay him $2.25 per day. The man, foolishly, took the reduced wage, but failed to return on Monday to his post. I was also informed that two other laborers quit the job fearing they would be served the same. These facts I learned by making enquiries from different persons, and wishing to see the Victoria workingmen fairly represented to the public I would ask you to insert these few lines, and you will greatly oblige. HOME AND FOREIGN.

OPENING OF THE GERMAN PARLIAMENT TO-DAY.

Fuller Particulars of the Terrible Quebec Fire—Catholics of Winnipeg to Test the Law Abolishing Separate Schools—A Reply from the Duke.

LONDON, May 8.—The Germans are to take the initiative in building forts in East Africa. Friendly natives and liberated slaves will be encouraged to settle around the forts where they will be taught the use of fire arms and assisted to cultivate the ground and otherwise be converted inth useful allies.

These forts which will thus be made practically into settlements, will be within supporting distance of each other, and will be gradually made insurmountable barriers to the old slave trade, not perhaps so much on philanthropic as on business grounds.

Railways in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—The Dominion Parliament has granted subsidies of 640 acres per mile to 220 miles of railway to be constructed within the province this season. This is exclusive of the Hudson's Bay road, and those receiving provincial aid only, and besides this similar subsidies have been proposed to 330 miles of the Calgary and Edmonton railway, and one hundred miles of the Galt railway, from Lethbridge to Crow's Nest Pass. Most of these roads are branches or connections of the C. P. R. This season promises to be the most active in railway construction since the main line passed through in 1882 and 1883. All told it is expected between four hundred and five hundred miles of railway will be built this year between Red River and the Rocky Mountains.

Will Test the Act.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—Roman Catholics have taken steps to test the constitutionality of the School Act lately passed by the Legislature depriving them of separate schools at the Government's expense.

Time Limited.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—The Duke of Connaught has replied to the Mayor's invitation to stay a day in Winnipeg that his time is limited, but the Governor General will arrange it if possible.

Fire in Windsor.

WINDSOR, May 8.—The brick block occupied by Jacob Bristol, tobacconist; W. T. Mossop, wall paper; Lorsinger & Co., spice manufacturers, was burned this morning. The loss will aggregate $16,000; insurance about $12,000.

Fire in Brantford.

BRANTFORD, May 8.—The Western Hotel, MacKay and Cook's groceries, and Mrs. Douglas' residence, were burned this morning. Loss, $8,000; insured $5,000.

Violating the Alien Law.

TORONTO, May 8.—Several line repairers who were sent out by the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company from here crossed over to the American side continuing their work. They were stopped by the United States officials, being informed that they were violating the alien labor law.

Arbor Day.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—This is Arbor Day in Manitoba, though it was intended to be devoted to the work of planting trees, the prairies are not being transformed into parks to any great extent. Farmers are hustling in the seed and citizens are taking a holiday.

The Longue Pointe Fire.

MONTREAL, May 8.—The Longue Pointe lunatic asylum fire continues to be the subject of conversation here as the full details become known, the horrors is also intensified. It is known by the last report to the Quebec Government that there was 1780 inmates instead of 1400 as already stated and from information gathered since the fire it is thought the loss of dead will reach 150 or 200. If enough material can be found an inquest will be held. It is now known that many wards were locked and in cases where the firemen did not break doors the whole room fulls perished. A startling rumor is now current, that a large number whom it was thought escaped must have perished as but few lunatics have been observed at large, the patients being collected and confined in convents and the exhibition buildings, but it will be weeks before those in charge will vouchsafe any information.

Will He Lose It?

MONTREAL, May 8.—Senator Thibandean having accepted Shrievalty of Montreal, the question arises will he lose the senatorship. This is the first case of the kind.

Robert Nominated for Goderich.

GODERICH, Ont., May 8.—The West Huron Conservatives nominated J. M. Robert, of Dungannon, for the local house.

Reformers Nominate McKenzie.

WATFORD, Ont., May 8.—The East Lambton Reformers nominated H. McKenzie of Warwick.

THE REICHSTAG OPENED.

Emperor William Suggests Legislation for Workingmen's Benefit.

BERLIN, May 6.—The reichstag was opened by the Emperor to-day. In his opening address his majesty declared that efforts to maintain the peace of Europe increased. He expressed the conviction that he will succeed in confirming the confidence of the powers in the pacific policy of Germany. Germany, the Emperor says, recognizes it as a duty to protect peace by cultivating an alliance for the purposes of defense by perfecting armaments, for which purpose a new military credit will be asked.

The Emperor announced that measures would be presented for improving the condition of workingmen.

The strikes during the year suggested an examination of the question whether the existing laws were adequate, taking in account the justifiable wishes of the workingmen. The questions claiming the foremost attention were those of Sunday rest and women's and children's labor.

The Federal Government is convinced that the proposals of the last Reichstag might in essential points become law without detriment to other interests. Legal provisions for the protection of workingmen against dangers threatening their lives, health and morals were susceptible of amendment, as were also the laws relative to the issue of labor regulations. The rule concerning working boys also requires to be supplemented with the object of assuring parental authority, in view of the increasing insubordination among youthful workingmen. A bill on this subject will be laid before the Reichstag.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Newfoundland Delegation—McIntosh Introduced—News from Washington.

OTTAWA, May 8.—The Newfoundland delegation, comprising D. Morrison, D. J. Greene, and P. R. Bowers, which arrived here on the 5th will endeavor to get the Dominion Government to interest themselves in their behalf with the British Government respecting the modus vivendi which the British Government has arranged with France and which Newfoundland says is a violation of existing treaties and detrimental to their fishing interests. It is difficult to see what Canada can do with England, seeing she cannot get a settlement of her own fishery business. No doubt the delegation will discuss the question of joining in the confederation.

The Newfoundland delegation had an interview with the Government on Tuesday, and laid their case before the ministers. The general opinion here is that Canada has had enough of the maritime provinces without Newfoundland.

In the House yesterday afternoon Mackintosh was introduced as Member for Ottawa.

Blake asked again why evidence in the Middleton case was not distributed. Chapleau said he would inquire.

A rumor is current that the Government expects important news from Washington, where the Minister of Marine and Fisheries now is, and Parliament may consequently be sitting for some time yet to receive the same, which may require legislation. If this be not correct, prorogation will take place this day week.

The Middleton and Rykert cases will be disposed of on Monday next.

VIGOROUS IMMIGRATION POLICY

What Occurred at the Conservative Caucus Yesterday.

TORONTO, May 4.—The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says: All accounts agree that Mr. Davin took advantage of the opportunity offered by the caucus to bring forward his pet grievance—a lack of vigor in the government's immigration policy. He declares that the building of the Canadian Pacific railway was only the beginning of the true policy, and unless it is followed up by a vigorous attempt to bring in immigrants the work will be largely fruitless. The money expended in the railway represents a very considerable proportion of waste if something is not done. The other Manitoba and Northwest members endorsed him. Sir John Macdonald declared the government could not go back to the system of assisted passages, but he promised a more vigorous policy would be adopted next year, and that more money would be spent.

COST OF THE PANAMA CANAL.

The Commission Estimates It at $180,000,000 for Completion.

PARIS, May 6.—The report of the special commission of the Panama Canal Company, sent out by Brunett, the liquidator of the Panama Canal Company, to investigate the condition of the canal, estimates that it would cost 485,000,000 francs ($97,000,000) to complete the canal on the dock system. To this should be added 20 per cent. for unforeseen expenses, and 20 per cent. for expenses and interests. The total cost is fixed at 900,000,000 francs ($180,000,000). The report further says that it would take between seven and eight years to complete the canal. The annual cost of management is estimated at 10,000,000 francs ($2,000,000). According to the estimates of the commissioners the receipts for the first three years after the opening would be 28,000,000 francs ($5,000,000) annually, gradually increasing year by year until twelve years after the opening, when they would amount to 61,000,000 francs ($12,000,000). The material of the old company and the work already performed is valued at 450,000,000 francs ($90,000,000).

WESTMINSTER NEWS.

Writ for the Commons Election to be Issued Soon—High Water in the Fraser.

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 8.—A private dispatch was received in this city yesterday from the members of the Government at Ottawa stating that a writ for the Commons election would be forwarded here this week.

The difficulty between the carpenters and contractors has been amicably settled. Nearly all the men have gone to work under the nine hour regulation and no further trouble is anticipated.

Agitation runs high over the matter of a choice between a ferry and a bridge over the river.

The water is still rising in the Fraser, and the banks are fast washing away at Chilliwhack. Fears are entertained that high water will break the Matsqui dyke and flood the farms in that vicinity.

LONGUE POINTE ASYLUM

DESTROYED BY FIRE—ONE HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

The Home of Thirteen Hundred Unfortunates Destroyed—Terrible Scenes at the Fire—Heroism of the Sisters—Maniacs Fly to the Woods.

LONGUE POINTE, Que., May 6.—A long line of gaunt towers is all one now sees of the Longue Pointe lunatic asylum, located ten miles from Montreal, and which, with many lives, was to-day consumed by flames. The sights witnessed during this tragic scene were such as can never be forgotten. Nothing could exceed the horror attending the terrible calamity, considering the number of the victims, the terrible nature of their death, and the manner in which the helpless victims received their fate.

There were incarcerated in Longue Pointe 1300 lunatics, for that asylum was a prison more than a hospital, and now not more than 1100 are accounted for, but many escaped into the fields and woods and the dead are ashes amongst the ruins. What the number of the dead is, is purely a matter of conjecture and can never be ascertained, since no other record is kept than that in the asylum books, and they are destroyed. Taking into consideration the whole of the evidence from the firemen, half of that of the sane inmates and that of the sisters in charge, it is a conservative estimate to say 100 inmates met death, though some say the number is double that, and others place it below this figure. However, the fact remains that no such calamity has fallen on the Province of Quebec since the earliest times.

The fire started in a cupboard in the second ward on the woman's side, in the upper story, by a careless patient, and as the ventilation was carried by a longitudinal shaft connected with the tower, the flames soon appeared blazing up through the roof in the centre of each tower. A telegram was sent to Montreal for aid, and one engine and reels started at once. They might as well have remained at home. In five minutes they exhausted the water supply.

Not a male patient was lost. Among the women it was different. The less hopeless cases were placed in the lower wards, and were removed with difficulty. From the upper ward, where the violent patients were secured, there came the wildest screams, as they resisted the men who were trying to induce them to make their escape.

When the firemen found they were powerless so save the building they turned their attention to the inmates and burst in the doors with axes. Inside, Chief Bevoit says, was such a sight as no fireman ever before witnessed. In one ward be entered there were twenty-five patients, and at his appearance they huddled together like a pack of beasts, entwining their arms into one mass of humanity. He seized the nearest, but, said the chief, "I could no more separate the crowd than I could the parts of your house." He tugged at them till the fire darted in their garments and enfolded them like a shroud of flame, and then he escaped with his life. In another ward three firemen were nearly trapped to death. They entered a room and the door, which had a spring lock, closed behind them. As is customary, there was no handle on the inside. The door resisted their axes and they rushed to a window but were driven back by the flames. The chief, suspecting their peril, sent aid to the other side and the men were carried down on ladders. The engineer of the building did good work, saving nine patients, and every fireman made a record of which he may feel proud.

ON THE FIRST ALARM

the engineer turned on the hose, but it was utterly useless, as the fire leaped along the ventilating shaft to the towers and burned in a dozen places at once. One of the nuns, Sister Mary, lay sick in the infirmary on the fifth floor, and to her rescue came three others, Demorest, Gilbert and Lumique. They seized their companion and bore her in a blanket to the staircase, but they were met by a sheet of flame and all perished. None of them were over 20 years of age.

The Sisters worked with the persistence of heroines, by turns imploring, beseeching and commanding the patients, and finally saving a very large number, in view of the inadequate facilities at hand.

A loud explosion was followed by the crash of beams. The interior was giving way. Wild faces sank from the windows and shrieks of maniacs were lost in the general uproar, and, as one by one the walls toppled inward, a blaze burst up from the newly added fuel that rose to the dark sky and shot its glare over the St. Lawrence to the southern shore, and even tinged the crest of Mount Royal ten miles distant. Then it died into blackness and nothing but the towers remained, bounded by a seething mass of metal and debris, under which are not the bodies, but the ashes, of a hundred victims. By this time it was six o'clock and growing dark and very cold. The spring rains had converted the place into a quagmire, and only horsemen could get from place to place.

THE POOR SISTERS,

most of them young and delicate, stood ankle deep in the mud, securing and superintending the removal of such furniture as had been saved. The patients wandered about aimlessly, clad in scant garments. When released, many of them leaped for joy and bounded like deer across the fields to the woods. Patients of both sex escaped, and though a cordon of police was thrown around, not all were included, and a horribly suggestive tale was borne in by an inhabitant who was coming through the woods to the scene of the disaster.

A new dread has come upon the inhabitants from the presence of so many escaped lunatics, and they will think themselves fortunate if they are not visited by a series of such crimes as only mad men can devise. While the fire was burning every high house-top in Montreal had its curious sight seers. The long road was thronged with carriages. The transport service of Montreal was pressed into the services and every available cab and hack went out filled with people.

PREMIER MERCIER

has placed the Montreal exposition building at the disposal of the nuns, and to-morrow the building will be stocked with provisions. The greatest wonder of the firemen is that such an absence of fire-fighting facilities could exist. Although the appliances were there, they were utterly useless. The institution had excellent engines, ten good pumps and new boilers, but no connection existed between the pumps and the boilers.

Sister Theresa, the superior, is broken-hearted, and being in ill-health, her name may be added to the already long list of victims. Drs. Bourge and Baralete were carried from the room unconscious. Whatever must be said of the management as a whole, the individuals exercised every power to lessen the calamity they had neglected to avert.

The Sisters of Providence had spent in founding and organizing this institution $1,132,232, of which $700,000 was spent on buildings. The buildings were insured by the government for $300,000. With the exception of the medical department, consisting of doctors, the sisters retained complete control of all departments of the asylum.

The death roll is estimated at fifty, although many more are missing, but are expected to turn up. It is feared seven nuns were burned, as they are missing, besides those named above. They were not, however, seen in the flames, and the sisters prefer not giving out their names at present.

THE SAANICH ROAD BOSS.

TO THE EDITOR.—I wish you would be good enough to let the electors know what the duties of the Saanich road boss are. Has Mr. Brethour anything particular to do for the salary paid him out of the people's treasury? I would like some information on this subject for the Saanich road boss during the the last few months seems to have discovered how to make a living without working very hard for it. FARMER.

One million volumes of the sixpenny edition of Charles Kingsley's novels have been printed in England, and in most cases the entire edition has been absorbed within a day or two after publication.

A German has invented an apparatus for forcing sidewise the swell in front of the head of fast-going ships, by means of steam jets from a nozzle under the water at the bow. The idea is that this device will help speed.

The returns of the Suez Canal for 1889 show that the gross tonnage of British vessels which passed through it was 7,478,396, which is 79 per cent. of the total tonnage. France is second, Germany third, Holland fourth, Italy fifth, and the United States out of sight.

The great British nation takes more than five and a half million pills a day, an average per head of one a week for every man, woman and child in the population. The pills represent a weight of 178 tons, and, laid end to end would stretch 6,500 miles, or from New York to Liverpool and back.

Man can go a mile in 26 min. 52 sec., swimming; 6 min. 23 sec., walking; 5 min. 39¾ sec., on snow-shoes; 4 min. 12¾ sec., running; 2 min. 49 2-5 sec., on a tricycle; 2 min. 29 4-5 sec, on a bicycle; 2 min. 12 3-5 sec., on skates; 2 min. 8¾ sec., behind a trotting horse; 1 min. 39¾ sec., on a running horse; and 50¼ on the fastest locomotives.

England has planned or under way seventy new war vessels, including ten iron-clads, forty-two cruisers, and eighteen torpedo cruisers. France's naval programme includes the construction of seventy-eight new vessels, namely, ten ron-clads, eleven cruisers, and fifty-seven torpedo-boats of various classes.

An effort is being made to introduce the polygonal driving-wheels for locomotives. Instead of being perfectly round, the outline of the wheel is composed of about 210 flat surfaces about an inch long. It is claimed that the slight variation from a circle does not interfere with smoothness in running, while it adds immensely to the traction-power. Experiments made so far have shown good results.

The amount of money in circulation in the United States, March 1, 1878, as given in the reports of the Secretary of the Treasury, was $805,796,847. The amount October 1, 1889, was $1,405,015,000, the net expansion being $599,224,193, or a little more than 74 per cent. The increase of population in the same period was about 33 per cent. In 1878 the circulation was $16.50 per capita; in 1889, $21.75 per capita.

The latest statement prepared by the Pension office show that 2,213,365 soldiers enlisted during the war; 364,116 were killed or died of disease prior to July 1, 1865; 121,896 deserted; 831,000 of the survivors are estimated to have shortened their lives twelve years because of wounds or other disabilities. On January 1st last there were 1,246,089 survivors, of whom 373,102 were on the pension rolls.

France spends $5,310,000 a year in subsidizing mail lines, England, $3,210,000. There are forty English Colonies the postage of which, from the United States, France, Germany, and Russia, is only half what it is from England, and many commercial houses in England, therefore, send their letters to France to be mailed. All this is the subject of a genuine British grumble just now.

A ROYAL HUSBAND.

Gustav Freytag's Recollections of Emperor Frederick III.

On the evening of the 23d of August, 1870, at Ligny, I was with the Crown Prince alone. He lay, fatigued, on his narrow field-bed, which he had put up whenever we were quartered. Before him on the little writing-table stood the photographs of the Crown Princess and his children, so that his eye could rest upon them. He spoke at once of his dear ones at home, of the characters of his children, how each one of them was developing, of his sorrows for those that were lost. His eyes moistened, and his face was transfigured by love and grief. His manner was so warm and pleasing that it softened the listener, too.

Then he began to speak of his consort in terms full of tender devotion. He extoled the wealth of her knowledge and mental capacity, to which, he said, he had always to look up, and he lamented that such a woman was not appreciated everywhere. One felt how happy it made him to speak of her of whom he was constantly thinking. Every act of homage, even the smallest, done to the woman he worshiped was to him a matter of importance, for his devotion and subordination to his loved wife were absolute. This love was the highest and holiest thing in his life, and filled the whole soul. She was the mistress of his youth, the confidant of all his thoughts, his counselor whenever she was disposed to give counsel. The laying-out of the grounds, the adornment of the dwelling, the education of the children, verdicts on persons and events—in every thing he consulted her thoughts and wishes. When he could not follow her wholly, or when his inmost soul contradicted her demand, he was very unhappy and uneasy. She had come to him from amid greater circumstances; had, with rich natural gifts, as her father's favorite child, drawn her intellectual nourishment from a far wider sphere of educative material. Through happy years she had labored with much zeal, and with great patience, to cultivate in the soul of her husband the interests she had at heart; and he felt in his pure and simple breast that what gained vitality in him was her work. He felt as if he had first learned to see, to feel, to recognize the true, to enjoy the beautiful, through her. It was easy to understand that such a domination of wife over husband, over the future ruler of Prussia, threatened to produce difficulties and struggles, greater, perhaps, for the wife herself, who led and elevated him to whom it is a necessity for a woman to look for guidance.

Two Mistakes About New York.

Hon. W. E. Dodge, president of the Evangelical alliance, said at the recent meeting of that organization that the committee of the alliance which is particularly charged with the work of making bad people good, had felt constrained to begin their task in New York. They did this because New York was such a representative American city, and likewise because it was so very wicked. A canvass had shown great moral deterioration there.

Both these propositions are open to serious objection. If there is any city in the country that is emphatically not American, that city is New York. The rich classes ape English manners and customs from the word go, even to being rude to women in public, and calling an overcoat a top coat. The poor classes are foreigners pure and simple. There are whole blocks and streets where scarcely a word of English is heard. Between these two classes, the rich and the poor, is a sprinkling of genuine, honest Americans who still believe in the doctrines of the Declaration of Independence, but these are not numerous enough to make much show.

Neither is New York the wickedest city in America, by any means. It will be pretty soon unless they get sufficient public schoolhouse room, but it is not now. Comparisons are odious, but you can take the morning papers in half a dozen cities in the Union and find, according to the size, more crime recorded daily than there is in the metropolis. There never was a greater effort made, both by the authorities and benevolent private individuals, to suppress crime and train outcast children in the way they should go than there is at present, and this honest and sincere work is beginning to tell, as honest and sincere work in the right direction always does tell.

New York city has received during 1889 fourteen inches more than the average rainfall. November in that city was so cloudy and rainy that the weather clerk was ashamed to own it. Yet, with all that, it was the most healthful November in five years. In that case, at least, heavy rainfalls did not affect health unfavorably.

It is an international disgrace, the number of thieves and swindlers from the United States who have taken refuge in Canada. The toughest part of it is that we have few if any Canadian defaulters under the protecting folds of the American flag. The thieves all go from our side. The two countries ought to make at once an agreement covering such cases, or Canada will gradually be transformed into a colony of criminals from the States.

Considering that farmers are usually the most conservative men in the community, the platform adopted by the National alliance at St. Louis is remarkable. The farmers go in for thoroughly radical ideas. They declare for the free coinage of gold and silver and the substitution of greenbacks for national bank notes, woman suffrage, the Australian ballot system and opposition to the liquor traffic in all its forms. Further, they demand revision and reduction of the tariff. Finally, they clinch their declaration of principles by a resolution that they will not vote for any candidate who does not stand upon their platform.

Oliver Johnson.

He was the last surviving founder of the old Abolition party. There were ten of them, and they met in the law office of Samuel R. Sewall, in Boston, Dec. 10, 1831. The ten men were: William Lloyd Garrison, Oliver Johnson, Samuel R. Sewall, Ellis Gray Loring, David Lee Child, Isaac Knapp, Robert B. Hall, Isaac Child, John Cutts Smith and Joshua Coffin.

It is notable that on Dec. 10, 1889, the fifty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Abolition party by the ten men in Sewall's office, in Boston, Oliver Johnson, the last survivor of the band, departed this life. He lived to see the utter wiping out of slavery and the enfranchisement of the black man. It was a satisfaction to him in his last hours to know that he had outlived Jefferson Davis. "I survived him after all," he said with a smile.

In Oliver Johnson's youth the road to fame was through the printing office. It was the school in which Horace Greeley, the Harper brothers and many other distinguished men graduated. Oliver Johnson became first a printer, then an editor. In one way or another, this restless, intensely earnest, yet genial and kindly man, has been well known to his countrymen for fifty years. He was a witness at the Beecher trial, and one of his sayings then has passed into history. Oliver Johnson was a Spiritualist. The opposing counsel tried to use this against him at his examination.

"You are a Spiritualist, I believe, Mr. Johnson," said the learned counsel.

"Yes," retorted Johnson, emphatically, "I am a Spiritualist, but I'm not a dashed fool."

A Christmas Letter Mission.

A charming charity was inaugurated in America eight years ago this Christmas. It had for its object the sending of letters and Christmas cards to the forlorn ones who would never otherwise get either letter or card. Prisons, hospitals, missions and children's asylums were included in the limits of the organization. The business of the association is in charge of James Potts & Co., 16 Astor place, New York. Remittances, cards, stamps, etc., may be sent there. The association distributed many thousand letters and cards last Christmas, in many states of the Union, over 13,000 in Pennsylvania alone.

But outside of this beautiful Christmas mission, every one knows some forlorn people who never get letters or Christmas cards. Apparently they have no friends. It is unutterably sad to think of the children who look to the Christmas time for the pretty things that never come. They come to others, but not to them.

They have heard how Santa Claus comes and fills children's stockings at night with gifts. Sometimes, in their childish faith, they hang up the stocking on Christmas Eve, just as happy children do. They find it empty in the morning. Did you ever think that hundreds of children wake up to find empty stockings every Christmas morning? So, you with full hearts and purses, let some of your good will and good fortune overflow upon those who know no difference between Christmas and any other day. It will touch even the heart of the workhouse convict, the jailbird, to know that somebody thought of him on Christmas.

A Seasonable Hint.

During the breaking up of winter, damp, chilly weather prevails, and rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, croup, quinsy, and other painful effects of sudden cold are common. Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a truly valuable household remedy for all such complaints.

MAYOR GRANT AND MESSRS. DAVIE AND ROBSON.

The parallel which the Colonist attempts to draw between the cases of THEO. DAVIE and Mayor GRANT in the matter of abandoning their old constituencies, is neither candid nor calculated to help the case of him, who shortly will be an ex-Attorney-General. Mr. GRANT abandons a constituency for one in which he is a resident. He abandons a small constituency for a large and influential one. The soon-to-be-ex-Attorney-General, however, abandons a populous and wealthy constituency for a small one, and one in which he is not a resident. Are men in the habit of doing such things? Is is reasonable to infer that a man living in a city will abandon a city constituency for one in the rural districts, except he wishes to augment his chances for election? Can it honestly be assumed that the motives which impel Mayor GRANT to seek to represent Victoria are the same as those which impel Mr. DAVIE to stand for Cowichan? We wonder that the Colonist should attempt to defend the Attorney-General by citing the case of Mayor GRANT, unless it is that it wishes to slyly stab Mr. DAVIE. But the case of the Premier is even worse yet. He is in the position that he cannot with decency seek a new constituency until he has first stood for New Westminster, while of the Mainland papers not one of them, save the World, can support him without stultifying themselves. What is the Premier going to do about it? Will he face the music or will he turn for aid and comfort to some Island constituency, Alberni for instance? But what of the constituencies in question? Are not the Westminsterites in the position of their newspapers, unable to endorse "Honest JOHN" in the event of his asking for it, and will the Alberni electors regard with complacency Westminster's cast off baggage? The position of "Honest JOHN" is really something dreadful to contemplate to those who are self-respecting. To Westminster he is a Judas, and what constituency cares to support such a man? What guarantee has Alberni that "Honest JOHN" will not betray it whenever he should regard it necessary to ride the hobby horse of "Balance of Power." By virtue of JOHN ROBSON's betrayal of his constituents, no constituency in the Province with decent regard for self-respect, can support him. The Hon. JOHN ROBSON, as a self respecting man, can do no less than stand for New Westminster, while New Westminster, profiting by such experience, can do no less than give him a cold shoulder.

A "FINANCIAL CYCLONE" OUT WEST.

Neither of the great political parties in the States have any confidence in BEN BUTLER, which would seem to argue that he is doubtful authority on leading questions. BEN BUTLER, however, is a successful lawyer and business man, two things which in the estimate of the dispassionate observer, must tend to establish the soundness of his judgment despite the croaking of politicians and of "able editors;" and so when he affirms that a "financial cyclone is impending in the Western States," we may reasonably pay heed. In Boston the other night, at the annual banquet of the Butler Club, the causes of the depression in the Western States came up, and BUTLER proceeded to show by figures that a financial crash was inevitable. After showing that at the present rate of compensation the farmer cannot hold his own with the skilled mechanic, thus causing farms continually to depreciate, and making their owners slowly and surely evolving into tenant farmers, he said: Taking simply the agricultural lands, the farms of the Western States, exclusive of city, county and town property, there will be found to be invested in farms the stupendous sum of $3,450,000,000, and this at a rate of interest averaging 7 to 9 per cent., to say nothing of the costs and commissions of agents which have been taken from farmers for procuring the loans of money, which may be safely said to be not less, on an average, than 7 per cent. The human mind at once does not take in the results of these vast sums. To illustrate the national debt at the close of the war was $2,800,000,000, very nearly one quarter less than the mortgage debt, and which might be refunded any day at 3 per cent. But there was no way of refunding the mortgage debt. The rate of interest precluded that. The average profits on farming industries were only from four to five per cent. It was impossible to pay either principal or interest. "True," said BUTLER, "there is the silver bill now on the tapis in Congress, which is to be a panacea of all our financial difficulties—a panacea certainly, in the views of some western men; but it would take all the silver that the mints of the United States can coin at the rate of four and a half millions a month, and all the silver that the silver mines can produce in that time to pay one year's interest on these mortgages, supposing that no more money is borrowed."

CREMATION AND THE CATHOLICS

The subject of cremation has been opened up again by the Catholics in France, and as a final settlement of the controversy, the whole matter was laid before the Pope, who in turn referred it to the Supreme Congregation of the Holy Office. The decision of the latter has been embodied in a Papal rescript, which Cardinal Archbishop RICHARD, of Paris, has formally promulgated for the benefit of the faithful. The Cardinal takes extreme ground against the practice, holding that it is pagan in origin, and in all its affiliations that it outrages the natural respect we should feel for the human body, and the Christian respect do to it in view of the resurrection. Other famous ecclesiastics have been interviewed by the Figaro, and express themselves quite as strongly in their objection to cremation. While the decision cannot be regarded as dogmatic and final, and consequently may be overruled by some succeeding Pope, it certainly for the present must command the respect of all good Catholics, especially in France, and will put a check on cremation in that country. It is in Italy, however, that cremation is most popular, the public crematories in that country outnumbering the grand total of the crematories of all other countries put together. But there the custom is largely confined to heritics and infidels, so that the decision will not affect the matter very seriously.

THE POPE AND SOCIALISM.

The Pope, it is said, in compliance with a promise he made has grappled with social disorder and African slavery. He has begun this task by writing a powerful appeal to the German Bishops, urging them to at once begin a crusade in defence of society and civilization against the revolutionary spirit of Socialism. This important document is addressed to Archbishop KREMENTZ, of Cologne, and has been made public. The Pope declares that he does not ignore the vast dangers and difficulties with which the social agitation is surrounded, but that he has deeply reflected on its causes and true remedies. He declares his promises to give all the aid in his power to solve the grand question of the time, and succour the miserable toilers. The Pope asserts that the Church's part in the work of relieving the situation will be more important than that of civil governments, because the Divine force inherent in religion will turn men willingly to just and honest and ways. The Pope says: "In order that the action of the Church may be more effective, as the times require, all of the means placed in its hands will be put into operation, the reunited force co-aspiring for one sole purpose, to lessen the gravity of the evil. Above all things it is our duty to seek with patience and assiduity to induce people to correct their habits and to habituate themselves to conform their public and private life to the doctrine and example of CHRIST."

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Colonist, on Wednesday morning, announced that Messrs. TURNER, IRVING, DUCK and DALBY had been selected as the Government candidates at a meeting held on Monday night. The same paper this morning states that a meeting of Government supporters will be held on Friday evening, "when the nomination of candidates will be proceeded." There is something wrong here. If the four gentlemen named were chosen as candidates on Monday evening, how can it be necessary to make a second selection on Friday night? Either the organ is not in the confidence of its party, or an effort is to be made to change the personnel of the ticket already named.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

Messrs. J. Cessford and W. Millington returned last evening from Sooke Lake, where they managed to catch 93 good sized trout with four hours fishing. They say the fish are very plentiful in the lake and good sport is the consequence.

THE TRACK.

The Victoria Jockey Club, at a meeting held on Tuesday evening, decided not to hold bicycle and horse races at the Driving Park on Saturday, as the members considered that the notice was not long enough for horsemen outside the city. Arrangements will however be made shortly for holding races every Saturday afternoon.

JACK DEMPSEY.

As announced in last evening's TIMES Jack Dempsey, the world renouned pugilist, will appear in the Victoria theatre on Saturday evening. The winner of more than fifty battles, he has been well called the "nonpariel," for no other fighter ancient or modern, has made a record like him. It is true he sustained a reverse at the hands of Le Blanche in San Fraficisco a few months ago, but this was the first and only occasion on which he has ever been worsted. That was done by a chance blow. The "Marine" has since refused over and over again to meet Dempsey and settle the question as to whether he really was entitled to be considered the better man.

W. Campbell, the well-known slugger of Portland, and Paddy Gorman, of Australia, will accompany Dempsey to the city, and give a sparring exhibition with some of the local athletes. But Dempsey alone will be worth seeing.

Leather Guns.

"Let me give you a bit of history, that many a man has overlooked," said a down town leather merchant the other day to a representative of the New York Journal. The objects of peace are not all that leather figures in, for it is to leather that we owe the introduction of light artillery. Leather cannons have been actually tried on the battlefield, and, what is more, turned the tide of one of the greatest battles of modern times. The inventor of leathern artillery was a certain Colonel Robert Scott, a Scotchman in the service of Charles I. of England. He constructed guns of hardened leather and experimentally tried them. The result was that they were pronounced superior to guns made of brass or iron. The Colonel, however, did not live long enough to enjoy the greatest triumph of his invention. He died in 1613, and a monument erected to his memory I have seen in a churchyard in London. This monument represents him as an armor-clad, fierce-looking man, wearing a heavy moustache and pointed beard.

"In the very year of the Colonel's death the effectiveness of his leathern artillery was amply proved on the memorable field of Leipsic, where, September 7, 1731, Gustavus Adolphus achieved his splendid victory over the Imperialists under General Tilly. It is said that it was owing to the invention of Colonel Scott that the victory was obtained.

The guns were found to be so easily carried that a small battery could fly from one part of the field to another, and thus artillery be brought to bear when most needed—a thing impossible with the heavy artillery of that period. Certain it is that leathern artillery was used in this great battle by Adolphus, though it is equally certain that the guns were never used afterwards. The reason of that, however, was that the leather guns having demonstrated the value of light artillery, a way was discovered of making the metal guns lighter, and the greater durability of the latter gave them the superiority.

The "Goody-Goody" Young Man.

To be goody-goody is to have the externals of piety without any real pith of religious manliness. The goody-goody young man is meek and sleek and saponaceous; he strains at the gnat of wholesome, plain speech, and swallows the camel of prurience; he values church going and Bible classes above righteousness; he is shocked at heterodoxy, but complacent of social injustice; he sniggers, but does not know how to laugh with a broad, genuine, human enjoyment; he is a giggling, finical, namby-pamby product of civilization, for whom none but his own little set have a half-penny worth of respect. The worst of the goody-goody young man is that he excites a strange antagonism to religion itself in many robust natures, who mistake his travesty of piety for the thing itself. A "gent" has been described as the vulgar traction of a "gentleman," and a goody-goody youth may be similarly described in relation to a strong and true Christian. I think I could cheerfully vote (says the Rev. J. W. Dawson, in the Young Man) for the extirpation of the whole species, or, at least, for their expatriation. The longer I live, the more I see the need for a sane and wholesome piety, which can use the world without abusing it; virile, broad and tolerant, believing that life is good and God the infinite good, and therefore filled with the cheerful exhilaration of a sound mind and a wholesome hope. But why need I say more? Goody-goody young men are not likely to read this paper. They go elsewhere for periodical edification.—Scottish-American.

ALBERNI ALLSPICE.

Church Affairs—Entertainment—Politics—Possible Candidates, Etc.

Mr. Frew, of the Presbyterian Church, has arrived and will take charge of the district for the summer months. On Sunday, April 21st, Mr. Frew preached his initial sermon to a large, appreciative congregation, handling the subject chosen for his discourse in a pointed and pithy manner. The gentleman's popularity is a foregone conclusion.

Chas. Brooks, photographer, of Victoria, has been sojourning here since the last boat arrived, and has taken many views of the fine scenery with which Alberni and Barclay Sound abounds, a large number of the farmers availing themselves of the opportunity afforded them of having their homes photographed.

The second monthly entertainment was held on Monday evening, 5th of May, and proved a great success. The advocates of temperance are gaining strength with the termination of each entertainment. Among those who in a large measure contributed to the success of the entertainment are: Misses Kirkpatrick and L. Mollet, Messrs. C. Soll and E. Gill; recitations by Miss M Huff, "The Wedding Fee," by Mr. J. S. Kirkpatrick, Alberni Church, A. J. Mollet; reading by T. Kirkpatrick; the dialogue in verse, "A Song of Degrees" by Miss Kirkpatrick and Bertha Nichols; Mr. C. Soll and Charles Mollet were the gems of the evening, receiving well merited applause. Mr. Frew gave a capital address, chosing as his theme, "Rotten Row, Hyde Park, London," by day and by night, depicting well the shifting scenes in this famous resort of the world's capital. At the termination of his address, Mr. Frew received an ovation.

Albernians are jubilant over their good fortune in receiving separate representation in the legislature. It is the only logical and natural outcome of our geographical situation. It is nothing but common justice to our isolated and consequently retarded condition, but a new era will open with the advent of separate representation. The time cannot be long delayed when Alberni and other tracts of country on the West Coast will awaken out of their lethargy and become important and prosperous places in this fair country of ours. Election on the brain is the general complaint under which we are laboring. The first question put to you when you meet any individual is, who do you think would be a good man to elect? With different individuals there are different opinions as to who was likely to be elected, each individual finding some objection to the one suggested by the person with whom he is in conversation with till they exhaust the list of likely candidates, and each comes to the conclusion that he himself is the only man likely to be of service to the country. The electors should beware of cajolery and nominate a candidate not likely to have his head turned, or lead by flattery or indulgence in sumptuous suppers. Alberni wants a man that will do his best for the district and country at large, irrespective of party or clique.

Mr. Mollett and Mr. Huff are spoken of as likely to become canditates, but whether either is likely to get elected is quite another matter. It is too soon yet to form an opinion as to who will be the candidates. I. C. U.

POOR LITTLE NANNIE.

The Girl a Newspaper Man Found on Rose Street, New York.

One day, as I crossed Rose street, a little girl about ten years old was engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight with a boy two or three years older. While she was doing nobly, it wasn't a fair fight, and I interfered to protect her.

"What is it to you?" she hotly demanded, as she turned on me with flashing eyes.

"But you are a girl," I replied.

"But I kin lick him if he'll fight fair."

I drove him off, and sat down on a doorstep with her.

"Girls shouldn't fight," I said, as the ragged and unkempt child at my side grew cooler.

"Not if they are picked on?"

"No."

"Then they'd call me a coward."

"But suppose they did? You come of a cowardly sex. Women are not brawlers and fighters. They are tender and gentle, and given to soft words and peaceful ways. Where do you live?"

"Down a piece and up stairs."

"Father and mother living?"

"No; but dad and mam is. Dad is over to the Island; mam washes and scrubs."

"And what do you do?"

"Mind the rooms mostly."

"Ever go to school?"

"Naw!"

"Can't you read?"

"Naw."

"Ever been out in the country?"

"Naw. Where is it and what is it like?"

And so I described something of farm life to her, telling her of the fields of grain, the green meadows, the barns and orchards and farm yards. Her eyes opened wider and wider as I went on, but toward the end she grew suspicious, and said:

"Say, what sort of a cove do you take me for?"

"But this is all true—upon my word it is."

"Don't believe it! If it was, mam would have let on. Say, what d'ye want, anyhow?"

"I want to talk with you a little longer. Ever go down to the battery?"

"Naw!"

"Or to Central Park?"

"Naw!"

"Ever see a cow or an ox?"

"I've heard of 'em, I guess."

"You have heard of Little Red Riding Hood, haven't you?"

"Can't remember."

"Never heard of Old Mother Hubbard, who went to the cupboard to get her poor dog a bone?"

"Naw!"

"How about the house that Jack built?"

"What Jack? Was it a house in Rose street?"

"You have heard of the Bible?" I continued, seeing that she was now interested.

"Yep."

"What is it?"

"I danno!"

"Where is Heaven?"

"Somewhere, I guess."

"Didn't any one ever tell you that you must be good in order to go to Heaven when you died?"

"Naw! Mam says I must be good or she'll break every bone in my infernal body!"

"Did you ever pray?"

"Noap."

"Did you ever hear the Lord's Prayer?"

"Noap. Did you?"

I repeated it for her, and when I was through she said:

"Say! I'll learn that some day if you'll try me!"

Was it queer that I met her again and again at the same spot, and that she was always on the lookout for me, and that after the first meeting she began to grow interested. She also grew ashamed of her garments, and I noticed that she had tried to patch and mend. At the third or fourth meeting she had a clean face and her hair had been combed. I think the neighbors looked upon it as a great mystery, but if they quizzed the child she did not let me know it. We used to talk of the country, other cities and people, the mountains and plains, the ten thousand things she had never heard of but was hungry to be informed of. I watched her closely, and I could see that knowledge brightened her eyes and made her face more gentle. Little by little she dropped off her slang, and little by little her manner changed to the coyness of her sex.

I reached the spot one afternoon to discover that she had failed me for the first time. In her place was a broad-shouldered, red-faced woman, who walked up to me and demanded:

"Are you the rapscullion who has done all this?"

"All of what, ma'am?"

"Been preachin' to my Nanny until she's got so soft and good for nothing that a fall down stairs has put her in her coffin!"

"Nanny dead!"

"And buried, sir, and she went on about the Lord's prayer and Heaven and green fields until she almost made me crazy. Oh, you villain, to come about destroying a poor mother's happiness in that way. Be gone, or I'll have the police after ye."—N. Y. Sun.

For Ex-Convicts.

Mme. Isabelle Bogelot was the energetic little French woman who organized the International Congress of Women that met at Paris last summer. Mme. Bogelot is director of a philanthropic movement that might well be followed by women in this country. This is an organization that takes charge of ex-convicts as soon as they are released from prison and procures work for them. Thus they are enabled to earn an honest livelihood, and can in course of time recruit the ranks of respectable citizens. There is the greatest need of such a society, actively working in every city in America. Wrongs and cruelties that will never be told are practiced on unsuspecting foreigners who throng to our shores and form so large a portion of the convict class.

An unscrupulous employer takes advantage of a man's ignorance of the language to cheat him out of his wages. In his rage and disappointment, the man not infrequently offers violence. Perhaps to get square he may even take something that belongs to his employer and carry off or destroy it. In either case the employer has the opportunity he wants. He has the hapless foreigner arrested. He is sent to prison on the employer's evidence. The employer escapes paying the wages, the other serves his term in prison and comes out branded for life. What is there for him, however honest? Who will give him work? This treatment of foreigners is systematically pursued in our country toward newly arrived emigrants by a class of men who, however few in number, are yet far too many.

Brazil will not be a government of the people at all if the present intentions are carried out. Eighty-four per cent. of the Brazilians are illiterate. It is proposed to exclude all these from the right of suffrage. Brazil will thus be governed by 16 per cent. of her male citizens. It may be well enough to make intelligence a qualification for suffrage, but it should be applied gradually. The ignorant should have time to repent and learn to read and write before the gate is shut against them. It might do to say that all who cannot read and write after five years shall be deprived of suffrage. But at present it is an interesting question who has the right to say who shall vote and who not, if Brazil is really at present a republic. Must not her constitution be submitted to the people?

England poses as a free trade country, which she is not. Alcohol and tobacco every country taxes. But, besides these, England levies a tax on gold and silver plate, on cocoa and dried fruit, and finally, on both tea and coffee. From tea alone there comes a revenue of more than $22,000,000, so fond are the British of that drink, which somebody says is transforming the English into a nation of sneaks. This is the meaning of the cry of "a free breakfast table" by the real free traders of England, who are endeavoring to have the tax removed from tea and the other articles.

The Austrian emperor has intimated that he would be willing to pay a visit to his brother of Turkey, and the sultan is in a fright for fear he will have to give his city another house cleaning.

Shakespeare in the Sign Language.

The chapel at the Deaf and Dumb institute at Kendall Green was well filled with the students of that college and their friends to witness a performance by the Saturday Night club. The play selected was Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors," and its interpretation in sign language was excellently done by the performers.

The stage setting was good, and the performance was given with the smoothness of a regular theater. Most of the amateur actors were appropriately costumed, and the signs which they used in the rendition of the play were intelligible to one who had no knowledge of the mute language. The story of the trials of the two Dromios furnished an enjoyable evening's entertainment.—Washington Post.

Electric Lighting Comparatively Safe.

As to the accidents from electric currents, the records of deaths in the city of New York show that there were killed by street cars during the year 1888 64 persons, by omnibuses and wagons, 55, and by illuminating gas 23, making the number killed by the electric current (5) insignificant compared with the deaths of individuals from any of the other causes named.—George Westinghouse in North American Review.

Dot's Theory.

It was little Dot's first visit to a farm, and she went with her aunt to see how the pigs were fed. The little one gazed in astonishment at the young porkers for a moment, and then placing her hand on her curly hair she said reflectively:

"Auntie!"

"Yes, dear."

"Does 'oo put all the piggies' tails up in curl papers?"—New York World.

Rather Well Stretched.

Esmonde — You look paw'tively — but what is th' mattah with th'—th'——

Bloomey—Trowsahs! I left them on me stretchah too long, and it's the only beach walking pair I've got with me.—Judge.

He Proved His Case.

"Human nature is mighty queer, isn't it?" he observed to the other man on the rear platform of the street car.

"Yes, I suppose so," replied the other.

"People are too sensitive—altogether too sensitive."

"I don't know about that."

"Well, I do. For instance, now, you have a red nose. You are not to blame for it, perhaps, but you are so sensitive that if I should offer you a remedy for it you"——

"You old loafer, I've a good mind to knock your head off," hissed the red nosed man as he squared off.

"Told you so!" replied the other as he dropped off. "Human nature is the queerest durned thing on earth, and some folks are so sensitive that they'd swallow their false teeth rather than let any one know they had 'em."—Detroit Free Press.

Truly Appreciated.

He was an artist; he sketched and drew,
Or painted scene blossoms with wondrous hue,
And his mimic forests would seem to wave
'Neath the dainty touch that his genius gave;
Or some face of the sweetest beauty graced
The canvas o'er which his brushes traced.
The world approved him, and said it knew
No limit to what his skill could do.

He could turn to subjects less intense;
He whitewashed the trees and the backyard fence;
He painted the ceiling and reddened the bricks,
And he painted the door step's dents and nicks;
He gave to the stairs the attention due,
And nickel plated the door knobs, too;
And his wife declared when his work was o'er
Such an artist had never lived before.

—Washington Capital.

Genuine Relaxation.

The proprietor of a boarding school was explaining the rules and regulations to an intending patron.

"On Thursday, which is a half holiday, in order to change our bill of fare, and make some exception to the Spartan simplicity of the diet on the other days of the week, we suppress—beans."

"And you substitute?"——

"Chorus singing and half an hour's practice in the gymnasium."—Judge.

Maintaining It.

A gentleman who knew John A. Logan in southern Illinois before the war tells us that on a certain occasion young Logan found it necessary to doubt the word of a man, and told him so without any circumlocution.

"Don't you call me a liar, sir," said the man excitedly, "I have a reputation to maintain, and I mean to maintain it, sir."

"I know it," said Logan; "and you are maintaining it every time you tell a lie."—Washington Post.

Railroading.

"Speedwell!" yelled the western railway superintendent to his assistant, "I see by these dispatches that the overland flyer No. 2 is snow bound at North Fork."

"Yes, sir," was the brisk reply, "I've ordered out the snow plows."

"Very well. Telegraph the crew that as soon as they open the road I want them to carry a train load of snow to South Pass and dump it on the track. The rails there are melting with the heat."—New York Weekly.

Not to Print That Way.

Editor—Have you ever appeared in print before?

Young Poet (proudly)—Yes, a hundred times for certain!

Editor—Ah! but I don't mean visiting cards, you know.—Unterhaltungsblatt.

Journalism as a Fine Art.

New York Editor—We have not had any sensations for a few days.

City Editor—No, sir.

"Well, you may offer $500 and funeral expenses to any reporter who will jump off the Brooklyn bridge."—Time.

The Reason.

"What is the matter with Yellowly, Brownly? He used to be one of the quietest men going; now I hear he is in constant hot water with his neighbors."

"Well, he bought a dog a few weeks ago."—Boston Courier.

Not Morally So.

Mrs. Pilfer—What leads you to think I am so very strong?

Neighbor's Girl—I heard pa say he believed you'd make a shoplifter with a little training.—Omaha World-Herald.

Had to See Europe First.

Smith—Have you ever seen the Niagara Falls, Miss Giltman?

Miss Giltman—O, no, I haven't seen all the sights of Europe yet.—Time.

"I Told You So!"

He—Blame if some one hasn't stolen my revolver.

She—Well, I always told you it would "go off" some time when you didn't know it.—Once a Week.

An electrical expert says that enough of the current comes through any wire that is strung overhead to destroy the life of a man.

Chicago vaunts herself on importing Patti direct to open her new and magnificent opera house, the Auditorium, without New York having anything to do with it. Whereupon New York retorts: Who wants to hear Patti anyhow, with her dyed hair?

Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard has given a $300,000 home to the working young women of New York. There is only one thing that would be better than this. That would be to persuade the working young women's employers to pay them wages enough for them to save some money and buy homes for themselves.

Henry George exhibits a grim humor in his paper, The Standard, under the heading "Society Notes." One item recounts the wealth and the doings of the families of fashionable millionaires. The next item tells the story of a mother who, crazed by poverty, killed her children that she might not see them starve before her eyes. Such notes alternate throughout the column.

Wool and Harmony.

Two hundred and fifteen of the most influential of the woolen manufacturers of the country, mostly from New England, have sent a petition to congress asking for the importation of wool free.

The farmers of the west declare they are going to have trace chains, blankets and manufactured clothing brought into the country free, or know the reason why.

The farmers of Ohio cry aloud that the duty on wool must be raised higher, much higher, without distinction of party; then the poor farmer can at least pay the interest on the mortgage on his land. When Ohio men want a thing, the country finds it out.

The farmers of New England don't care to any great extent whether wool is imported free or not, since they are not sheep farmers. But they would like to see justice done in respect to getting manufactured articles cheaply. Therefore they want the duty taken off such articles as the New England farmer finds necessary to his comfort.

Congress will hardly dare to neglect entirely the petition of the wool manufactures. But how, then, about the Ohio farmers and the rest?

The Brick Making Industry.

When Lawrence Washington, brother of George, built the house at Mount Vernon, brick for the walls was imported by sailing vessel from England. It was not thought that America could furnish proper clay for brick making. Even so late as the close of the last century this belief still prevailed, and many an old historic mansion of revolutionary times, and even later, was built of imported brick.

Yet in 1889 the brick product of the United States is valued at $75,000,000. Ten billion brick were made. They are in many shades of color, from the rich dark red of the Philadelphia article to the pale cream of the Milwaukee brick.

It has been found that no country is so rich in varied and beautiful clays as our own. We have here the material alike for the finest porcelain and the most substantial brick. The beautiful and artistic ornamentation our workmen are learning to fashion from red tiling clay are opening our eyes to the splendid possibilities that lie before us here. One part of the Union after another has been supposed to be deficient in brick clay, only to be found on examination to possess it in rich abundance. There is scarcely a section of the Union that has not a fine, rarely tinted clay peculiar to itself, so that the expert knows the moment he sees a building whence the brick in its walls came.

The history of our brick work, especially the story of brick making machinery, forms one of the most splendid chapters in the development of American industry.

Probation for the Dead.

It seems to have suddenly occurred alike to Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Congregationalists to fall to pondering the passage of Scripture which tells us that the Lord Christ went for a while and ministered to "spirits in prison." What does it mean? There are those who declare plainly it means that these were spirits undergoing a purification preparatory to being finally judged.

An Episcopalian clergyman in Connecticut not long since talked to his congregation of his belief in a state in which the dead were purified and purged of their sins before finally becoming fit company for the perfectly holy and blest.

Uneasiness under the doctrine of immediate and final damnation for the dead, for the heathen who never heard of Christ, and for infants "not a span long," has fermented among the Presbyterians to such an extent that Professor Briggs, one of the ablest theologians in that denomination, said recently that the call for a revision of the Westminster confession was the beginning of a theological reform that would sweep all Protestantism.

If the dead are not really dead, if their souls are immortal and they are permitted to purify themselves after laying off the flesh, why would not prayers from mortals strengthen them and help them just as they might have done while the souls were yet prisoned in the flesh? That is a question thousands of Protestants are beginning to ask.

A DANGER SIGNAL.

A Cold in the Head may be aptly termed a danger signal, warning you that if neglected that dangerous and disagreeable disease, Catarrh, is sure to follow, perhaps leading to Consumption and the grave. At no season of the year is Cold in the Head more prevalent than during the Spring months, and at no season do the people of this country suffer more generally from troubles; but apply NASAL BALM, the only remedy that will give instant relief and effect a thorough cure. The following testimonials from among thousands in our possession bear witness to its sterling merit.

Alex. Burns, Sudbury, Ont., says: I may state that I have been afflicted with Catarrh seven or eight years, and it was attended by consequent symptoms such as foul breath, constant dropping into the throat, hawking and spitting, partial deafness, roaring in the ears and sickening pains in the head directly over either eye. I have used powders and douches, but all to no effect, the only result arising from the use of such was temporary relief, followed by the usual symptoms in a more aggravated form. The results arising from the use of Nasal Balm: Sweet breath, stoppage of the droppings into the throat, (consequently less hawking and spitting), clearness of hearing, and not once since I began its use have I had pain in the head. In fact it is my opinion that a careful and persistent use of the Balm will effect a cure in the worst case of catarrh.

W. H. Sharp, of Treherne, Manitoba, says: I am delighted to be in a position to say that NASAL BALM is helping me wonderfully. IT SPEEDILY CLEARED OUT THE HEAD AND STOPPED THE DISAGREEABLE DROPPINGS INTO THE THROAT. For some time I have suffered severely from catarrhal headaches. NASAL BALM has removed every trace of it. I have every confidence in its completely curing me. It is deserving of all you claim for it, "A Positive Cure for Catarrh. Easy and Pleasant to use." I hope it will soon be for sale in every town and village in Manitoba.

D. Derbyshire, Mayor of Brockville and President of the Ontario Creamery Association, says: Nasal Balm beats the world for Catarrh and Cold in the Head. In my own case it effected relief from the first application.

Nasal Balm
Instantly Relieves
Cold in Head

J. R. A. Smith, of Spallumcheen, B.C., says: I have been using your Nasal Balm for some time, with the most gratifying results. My case of catarrh was a very bad one, but the Nasal Balm has cleared my head, stopped the droppings into my throat, in fact has made me feel smarter and better in every way. I look upon Nasal Balm as a perfect remedy.

L. D. Dion, Dept. Railways and Canals, Ottawa, says: I am very glad to give you today the testimony that Nasal Balm has completely cured my catarrh, from which I suffered for nearly three years.

Nasal Balm
Positively Cures
Catarrh

Isaac Waterman, Imperial Oil Co., Petrolia, Ont., says: Nasal Balm gave me the most perfect satisfaction of any medicine I ever used for Cold in the Head. I found it easy to use, quick in giving relief and effecting a complete cure in a couple of hours.

Mr. John H. Adams, merchant, Brantford, says: I have used Nasal Balm for Catarrh, and found it to be a certain cure.

If Nasal Balm is not kept in stock by your dealer, it will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents for small and $1 for large size bottle) by addressing

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Business Done at Last Night's Regular Meeting—Ward By-law Passed.

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held at the city hall last evening. Present, Ald. Vigelius, who in the absence of Mayor Grant took the chair, and called the board to order, and Aldermen Holland, Robertson, Smith, McKillican, Wilson, Harrison, Goodacre and Kelley. Routine work being completed, Clerk Dowler read the following communications:

From J. P. Burgess, asking permission to make connection with box drain.—Granted, subject to permission of street commissioners.

From George Mann, calling attention to bad state of sidewalk on Henry street.—Referred to street committee.

From H. F. Heisterman, on behalf of property owners on Elliot street, asking that a box drain be put in.—Referred to street committee.

From Gray & Ralff, asking a rebate or reduction on water rates for water used in the Turkish baths.—Referred to water committee.

From Colbert & Warner, in reference to a three-storey building on Yates street, and asking an interpretation of the building by-law—Referred to inspector and city barristers to carry out by-law.

From A. J. Clark, asking for a position to look after the fire alarm at a salary of $30 per month.—Referred to fire wardens.

From J. P. Burgess, asking for city water on Topaze Avenue.—Referred to committee.

From John Teague on behalf of C. Bossi, in reference to drainage of proposed new building on Store street.—Referred to committee.

From H. G. Hall, in reference to construction of sidewalk which had damaged his clients, Jones & McNeill, and claiming $100 damages there for.—Referred to committee.

From R. F. Johns, enclosing account for keep of city prisoners.—Referred to committee.

From Drake, Jackson & Helmcken, acknowledging receipt of letter re sanitary wharf.—Filed.

From Geo. Francis, asking leave to run an approach to a floating stage near James Bay bridge.—Referred to committee.

From Jas. C. Ingles, of Plymouth, England, enclosing plans for sewerage scheme.—Referred to committee.

From Ed. Mohun to the same effect as above.—Dealt with the same.

PETITIONS.

From several ladies, resident on Herald street, asking that the sprinkler be sent to work on that street.—Referred to committee.

From ratepayers resident on First street, asking that it be graded.—Referred to committee.

MAYOR GRANT TAKES THE HELM.

At this point in the proceedings Mayor Grant entered the Council Chambers, and took his seat in the chair, so ably filled during the first part of the meeting by Ald. Vigelius.

WARD BY-LAW.

On motion the wards division by-law was taken up for consideration, and with the Board in committee the by-law was considered clause by clause, and after some amendments it was passed. The committee rising, the Board took up the measure and passed it as amended.

ACCOUNTS

for the month of April were passed for payment.

REPORTS.

The street committee suggested the loaning of the spare water cart to Bourchier, Croft & Mallette; that the grading of Douglas street be deferred; that a sidewalk be laid on Fourth street.—Adopted.

The fire wardens recommended the accepting of the Gamewell fire alarm; that the request of the secretary of the Jubilee Hospital re loan of old fire truck should be granted.—Adopted.

The Chief Engineer also reported on several matters concerning the proper working of the department. The Chief also asked the Board to state which department had the fire hydrants in charge, the fire or the water.

Ald. McKillican thought that the paid fire department should look after the hydrants that some use could be made of an ornamental body of men.

Ald. Smith thought all the hydrants should be put into good order before being handed over.

Ald. Wilson was in favor of the water works people looking after the hydrants. He spoke of the sneer of Ald. McKillican, who took every occasion to make little of a body of men who worked well when required, and when it was remembered that the most of the men only received $14 per month for giving an efficient protection to the city, he considered that any sneers at the firemen were entirely uncalled for.

On motion it was decided that after the hydrants are put in repair, the city engineer is to report at once to the water commissioner and the same then to be fixed at once. The report of the chief was referred to the fire wardens.

PRIVATE FIRE ALARMS.

Ald. Wilson rose to suggest that several alarms be purchased by the city for the use of the married men of the fire department, so that in future only a still alarm after 12 at night would be necessary. He believed it would be a move in the right direction to have those bells put in, and as the firemen wishing them were willing to pay one dollar per month for the rental, it would be no expense, but rather a source of revenue.

Ald Vigelius seconded the suggestion and spoke warmly in favor of the department, and the tender of Mr. McMicking was accepted.

CEMETERY.

Ald. McKillican wished to ascertain the views of the board in reference to cemetery extension, and suggested that a purchase of ten acres adjoining the cemetery, at a price of $2000 an acre. Terms could be made by which only half need be paid down, the balance at ten years at 2½ per cent. He accordingly moved to that effect.

Considerable discussion ensued, and on motion the matter was referred back to the committee for another week.

The board then rose, it being ten o'clock.

Real Estate at Auction.

The property of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was offered at auction yesterday by Capt. Clarke. The property included the old church on Courtney street, the lot on which it stands, and the manse on Douglas street. A bid of $22,000 was received, but the management refused to let it go for that figure, and bought it in with a bid of $24,000.

Wedding Bells.

In Christ Church Cathedral, by the Rev. A. Beanlands, at 8 o'clock last evening, Mr. J. C. Hayes, of Golden, B. C., and Miss Kate Helena Nelson of this city, were joined in wedlock in the presence of the members of the family of the bride and a few friends. The bride was given away by Mayor Grant. The happy couple will pass their honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs.

Business Changes.

Mr. T. J. Burns, of the American hotel, has disposed of the stock and business of his bar on Yates street to Geo. Shea and J. McLeod, who intend to refurnish it and keep up the good reputation it has held during the number of years that Mr. Burns held control. The new proprietors have leased, the bar only, for five years, Mr. Burns still continuing in the management of the hotel portion of the business.

Strike Ended.

A meeting of the striking carpenters of Westminster was held on Tuesday night in Orange Hall to further consider the situation. It was announced that all the contractors except one had signed the nine-hour agreement, and so the strike was declared ended, with a victory for the laborers. Nearly all the men have resumed work. Some few have been discharged from their old jobs, and some few desire a week's rest; but all are at liberty to go to work, except for the one man who will not sign the agreement.

No Sunday Drunk.

The Sunday closing law has been enforced in Vancouver for several weeks, and the News-Advertiser, speaking of the same, says it is a noticeable fact that on the past two Mondays there has been no case of drunkenness before the police magistrate. Previous to that time Monday was generally a field day for the confirmed lovers of the flowing bowl. Whether the change is attributable to the closing restrictions or not is a matter for individual opinion, but it would seem on the face of it that it is, and that whether the law against selling on Sunday is enforced according to the strict letter, and regarded sacredly by the liquor dealer or not, there is sufficient observance of it to put a stop to drunkenness on the street.

Story of a William Goat.

The bay window of an attractive house on the Gorge road is somewhat disfigured at the present time through coming in contact with a Billy goat. William, it appears, while wandering around in search of some mischief to do, climbed up on top of the verandah, and looking into the bay window was surprised and angered to see a Billy goat of similar dimensions to himself. William at once squared off for a battle and as the other fellow did the same thing, the hero of this narrative immediately poised his tail and made a grand dash at the intruder, intending to knock the latter out in one round. Before the owner of the house, who was viewing the pantomime, could interfere, the pugilistic William had gone "plunk" through into the front room, and was looking around eagerly for the other "to do him up."

Sons of St. George.

The first lodge of the Sons of St. George in Canada was last night instituted in this city by Grand Organizer W. Williams, of San Jose, Cal., who formally opened Milton Lodge, No. 311, with a charter membership of 41, and installed the following officers-elect into their respective chairs: P.W.P. B. F. Mulhrene; pres., J. Ottaway; vice-pres., H. Dowsett; secretary, G. W. R. Lee; assistant secretary, H. Greasley; treasurer, J. Bland, jr.; messenger, J. R. Roberts; trustees, Messrs. Hughes, Jones and Rutter. Meetings will be held weekly in future, and the principles of the order, which was instituted in Philadelphia in '71, presented wherever possible. This morning Mr. Williams went to Nanaimo there to institute a lodge, proceeding from there to Vancouver and New Westminster on similar business. On the conclusion of the lodge business last night an adjournment to the Delmonico was taken, and with Bro. Mulhrene in the chair, a well set table was sat down to and a pleasant time had.

The Coroner's Inquest.

The inquest over the little body found in Victoria arm, on Tuesday, was continued last evening, when Officer Hunter testified to having found the body. Jos. Phoenix, whose name was discovered on one of the papers, was called as a witness, and said that he believed that it was a still-born child which he had had neglected to register and which he had buried in the woods. The jury paid a visit to the spot where Phoenix said he had buried the child, but no trace of a grave could be found. Dr. Milne was then called, and stated that he had attended Mrs. Phoenix during confinement, and she was delivered of a male child, living. The child died shortly afterwards, he understood. The body found was identified as that of a female child and consequently not the one referred to by Dr. Milne. The jury brought in a verdict at nine o'clock that the child whose name is unknown, was found dead, having been put in the water by some unknown person. The following were the jury: J. Gosnell, (foreman) T. Tugwell, Wm. Millington, L. Stemler, Chas. Smallbone, and Thos. Ridehall.

The Winnipeg Libel Suit.

The libel suit of Mr. Ashdown, formerly president of the Winnipeg Sun company against Mr. Luxton, of the Winnipeg Free Press, has resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff for $500 and costs. The costs it is said are very heavy. The case has been appealed.

Unpleasant Accident.

An unpleasant accident occurred in Mr. Wenger's jewelry store this morning. The plaster of the ceiling became loosened and fell, crashing through the show cases and smashing things up badly. The accident was probably due to the jarring caused by the work going on above the store in Ames Holden & Co.'s factory.

Manitoba Schools.

The new school laws went in force in Manitoba on Thursday last. The effect is to abolish separate Catholic schools in Winnipeg, Brandon and West Selkirk, and to make all other sectional boards in the Province come under the name "public school boards." It is believed that the Catholic schools in Winnipeg will be continued as private institutions.

High Time to Begin.

After a long winter the system needs a thorough cleansing, toning and regulating to remove impurities and prepare for summer. Thousands of testimonials show the Burdock Blood Bitters is the best spring medicine ever discovered, producing a feeling of buoyancy and strength. It removes that tired, worn out feeling, and restores lost appetite.

CLEARING SALE.

A few days ago we advertised a clearing sale of the remaining portion of our stock saved from the recent fire, to make room for extensive alterations, and for the large stock personally selected by our Mr. Hastie in the Eastern markets. To effect this we had to make big reductions. We are glad to say our efforts are meeting with success. We have been crowded for Carpets, Linoleums and Oilcloths. We have a few high class Parlor and Bedroom Suites that we will sell at the price of common goods. Do not miss the chance of securing first-class goods at such low prices. Give us a call, as the whole must be cleared out.

We believe Truth is the Corner Stone

To-day of permanently profitable advertising. Whatever statements are made must be backed up by merit.

It is useless to say we have goods at such and such a price unless we really have them.

It is no good to say they are cheap unless we are sure such is the fact.

The experience gained during a long period in the Dry Goods business, together with ample facilities, enables us to sell first-class goods as low, if not lower, than any other house (we make no exception whatever).

We are convinced that our stock for the Spring exceeds any heretofore offered, and, confident of our ability to give satisfaction, we respectfully solicit your patronage.

YOUNG MEN'S INSTITUTE.

Concert and Dramatic Entertainment at Philharmonic Hall.

Young Men's Institute No. 85 of this city held their anniversary entertainment at Philharmonic Hall last evening. A large number of ladies and gentlemen were present and a splendid programme was carried out to the satisfaction of everyone present. Mr. F. H. Lang's solo, "Marguerite," was well received. Miss Kate Burnes favored the audience with C. A. White's "Madeline." The young lady's sweet voice captivated the most critical portion of the audience, and her second appearance proves that Miss Burnes will be a great favorite. It is unnecessary to comment on Miss Hyams' recitation. That young lady was recalled several times, and added fresh laurels to her well-known reputation. Miss Annie Shaw's solo, "The Songs My Mother Sang," touched the hearts of all present. The sweet singer's melodious voice was heard to advantage last evening and a repetition of the solo was called for and kindly given. A trio by Mrs. Ralff, Miss Jenness and S. W. Gray was one of the best portions on the programme. The ladies and gentleman responded to an encore. Miss Bertha Fiterre made her first appearance last evening, and delighted everyone present with a nice solo entitled "Orange Blossoms." Miss Fiterre possesses an excellent voice. The Victoria Orchestra, consisting of Miss Bantly, Mr. Bantly, Masters Bantly, Profs. Kauffman and Thompson, performed several difficult selections during the evening. The entertainment concluded with the drama "Down to Bedrock." Staff Sergt. Mellon, as O'Callaghan, kept the audience in roars of laughter. Messrs. Lang, Tribe, Nolan and Fitzpatrick were well up in their respective parts. The ladies, Mrs. Wilks, Miss Kerg and Miss Roarke, assisted very materially in the success of the closing part of the entertainment. The entire management of the concert was under the direction of the Rev. Father Van Nevel.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Claxton, from Montreal, are at Roccabella.

Ed. Kellogg returned by the Kingston last evening from a visit to Seattle.

Ben Young, J. Laidlaw and T. E. Ladner came over by the Islander last night.

F. S. Claxton, of Dalby, Ballentyne & Claxton, has returned from Montreal accompanied by his wife and family.

John McLeod, formerly school teacher at Sumas, ands at present in the employ of the Union Pacific at Portland, is in the city.

H. Abbott has left Vancouver to make a trip on horseback over the proposed line of the Kootenay and Columbia Railway.

G. M. Sproat has gone to Kootenay, and while there will help to keep the political pot boiling. He says West Kootenay will return an opposition member.

Prof. Oliver left on the Sound steamer last evening for an extended trip for his health. His popular dancing classes will be continued until the end of the season as usual, by Mrs. Oliver.

Sad Drowning Accident.

A sad accident occurred at East Wellington Tuesday evening between eight and nine o'clock, says the Free Press. It appears that Mrs. Benney missed her bright little girl of two years old, named Maggie, and not believing any harm had befallen her, thought to wait a little longer before going to search. The mother had occasion to go to the well for a bucket or water, and in letting down the bucket found it would not sink. She was immediately overcome by a terrible suspicion, which only proved to be too well founded, for in looking in the well she saw her little child lying in the water, having by some means or other fallen in. She immediately aroused the neighbors, and willing hands brought the child to the surface. Medical aid was summoned, and efforts made to restore the child, but without avail, she having been in the water too long. The mother is quite prostrated with grief over the loss of her child. The well was about thirty feet deep, and had been left open, or the accident would not have occurred.

Mayor Grant telegraphed to the Minister of Militia, requesting that Colonel Holmes and the officers and men of C battery might be permitted to take part in the reception to H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught. Hon. Mr. Caron replied to-day: "Yes, by all means."

New Fire Quarters at Nanaimo.

At the annual meeting of the Nanaimo Fire Department, held on Tuesday evening, Messrs. Gregg & Honeyman, architects, were instructed to prepare plans for a new engine house. The city council are also to be asked to put up another house. When these houses are completed, the Nanaimo Fire Department will have pretty fair accommodation.

The Victoria Times.

Under the management of Mr. William Templeman, formerly of Almonte, the Victoria, B. C. TIMES, is taking first place among the newspapers of the Pacific Province. The TIMES has just donned a new dress and become an eight page, forty-eight column paper. It is a credit to Victoria as well as to its proprietors and manager.—Ottawa Free Press.

For the Assizes.

Sheriff McMillan has posted the usual notices stating that panels of the Grand and Petit Juries will be drawn on Friday the 9th of May, (to-morrow) and that on Monday, the 19th of May, the said juries will meet at the Law Courts at 11 o'clock, and then and there attend to such business as may be required of them. At present there are no cases on the calendar, and there is every probability of a blank sheet the day the assizes are set for.

Refused to Pay It.

A Chinaman who a few weeks ago was ordered by the police magistrate to pay his license of $10 for keeping a wash-house and $2 costs of the court, was arrested this morning for refusing to pay the costs. When marched into court the Mongolian had the appearance of one who was being very badly treated, and protested strongly against paying the money, but his Honor informed him that if it was not paid immediately he would have to order him to do a few weeks' work for the city. When last seen John was using some very loud language, which if interpreted might seriously hurt the feelings of the police.

Honored by a Flag.

To-day the flag over the Tiger fire hall was gaily waving, and above it a long white streamer fluttered in the breeze. This is in accordance with a time honored custom among the fire laddies, who when one of their number enters the bonds of matrimony, thus give to the world notice of the fact. The flags to-day were hoisted in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neal, who last evening were made one by Rev. Starr, that gentleman having married Mr. Neal, of Tiger No. 3 Co., to Miss Mary Pike of Millstream. Mr. Neal, who is also well know as the stage manager of the Victoria, to-day received congratulations from his many friends, who trust that his honeymoon will not be disturbed by the clang of the fire bell.

Steamboat Strike.

The coal and wood firemen and passers and the deck hands of the Sound steamers have struck for an advance of $5 a month, as they consider fifteen hours is too long for a working day. The strike was nearly the cause of stopping the North Pacific from arriving here yesterday, as when the boat reached Port Townsend the men picked up their baggage and went ashore. After some little difficulty the captain obtained a crew partly consisting of "scabs" and partly his old men, and arrived in Victoria a little late last evening. The men on the City of Kingston have been granted the advance and that boat will consequently be out of the trouble. If satisfactory arrangements are not made to-day it is very probable that the Olympian will not arrive this evening.

AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

A Beautiful Trophy Offered by Public Spirited Citizens.

The cup, which is offered by Crane, McGregor & Boggs for the amateur single scull championship of British Columbia, is doubtless the finest thing of the kind in the Province.

The cup stands three feet in height. The bowl is of oxodized silver, satin finish with gold inlaid. It is supported by two pairs of sculls entwined with a gold wreath, an anchor and rudder and two boatmen holding boat hook and oar. The base on which these rest is tastefully chased in aquatic scenes. On the front side of the cup is a beautifully burnished shield with a view of a boatman in racing trim, on the opposite side a plain burnished shield for the inscription of the winners name, date, etc. The whole arrangement is surmounted by the statute of a woman (representing the Dominion) holding a wreath in one hand and a shield with the Canadian coat of arms in the other. It will rest on a polished slab of black polished ebony, which elevates it slightly and gives the beautiful trophy a very striking appearance. The value of the cup is $200. It is on exhibition in the windows of Messrs. Pennock & Clayton, the jewelers, who supplied it.

The cup, as already stated, is for the amateur single scull championship of British Columbia (outrigger skiffs). The competition, which is open to the whole Province, must take place on Victoria harbor, and the cup before becoming the property of anyone, to be won twice by the same competitor. The first competition will be on the 24th of May, this year.

New Regulations Regarding the Importation of Liquors—Other Matters.

Collector A. R. Milne to-day issued the following circular to several importers of liquors:

CUSTOMS HOUSE, VICTORIA, May 8, '90.

I have received this morning Departmental Circular No. 338, of the 26th April last, in re changes as made in the proposed new duties on Liquors, from which I understand as follows:

1st. That 15 per cent is the maximum underproof allowed.

2nd. Overproof to be added as before.

3rd. Uniform rate of $2.00 per gallon.

4th. Quantity in case liquors to be actual measurement.

A. R. MILNE,
Collector of Customs.

MARKET MATTERS.

Prices Current for Staples and the State of Trade.

The wholesale merchants have been kept busy during the last week trade having been very brisk.

WHOLESALE GROCERIES.

Eggs are quoted at 20c to 22c; bacon, salt hides, steady at 11c to 14½c; butter, extra creamery, 32½c; fair, 27½c; California rolls, 25c; cheese has again gone up now being steady at 15c to 15½c; coffee, for green, 26½c to 32c; roasted is 35c to 40c; Japan tea, steady at 25c to 40c; black, from 17½c to 60c; sugars continue to be brisk at 8¼c per pound for granulated by the barrel, ¼c advance in kegs; yellows sell at 7c; Apples have disappeared from the market; potatoes are very scarce at from $50 to $55 per ton, the local stock is nearly exhausted and merchants are now receiving them from the east; California new, are expected by the next San Francisco steamer.

The People Warned.

Many people are deceived into neglecting bad blood, dyspepsia, constipation, etc., and thus allow these and other diseases to become established. Act promptly by using Nature's blood purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters, which regulates the entire system, curing all diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels. *

RETALIATION.

American Tug Boats Combining to Hurt Victorian Trade—Lumber Interests.

There is a great danger of the trade of Victoria being in some degree injured by the action of the American tugs across the Sound, unless some sort of a decision as to the rights and privileges of both the Victorian and American tugs be arrived at which will be acceptable to all parties.

Since the case of the tug Mogul, of Port Townsend, which was libelled under the Canadian customs laws some weeks ago for an infraction of the said laws, the tugboatmen of Puget Sound have combined to keep all vessels bound into Royal Roads for orders or seeking cargo, from going to that anchorage, and have even misrepresented, in order to get such vessels to anchor at Port Townsend. This has been noticeable in the recent case of the Chilian ship Juan Navarro, towed to the Roads seeking lumber. She was spoken outside Cape Flattery by an American tug, and the captain informed the inbound skipper that it would be much cheaper for him to take his ship into an American port. This is the story of the tug boatman, but it is reported that the American tug agreed to tow the Navarro to Royal Roads, and then anchored her in Port Townsend harbor. It is certain at any event that the ship's captain had to come to this port for his orders, which had been sent on here from the owners.

Now, this is calculated to hurt the trade of Victoria and the Province to to no small extent, and when it is considered that most of the tugs on the other side are indirectly owned by the large lumber companies, it is easy to understand that all the inducements possible are held out to incoming ships to go to the Puget Sound side, and towage to that place is made very low in consequence. This must of necessity hurt the lumber trade of British Columbia, for it is a well known fact that a good many Australian firms which in the past took lumber from this Province are now shipping from the Sound.

This is a matter which should be looked into and a strong effort made to formulate some plan to protect the several interests centered in the shipping and lumber trade of the Province and the tug boat business of British Columbia.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Rev. D. McRae the Recipient of an Address and Purse.

Last Tuesday evening a small party from Cedar Hill made a friendly call at the residence of the Rev. D. McRae. After receiving a hearty welcome from the Rev. gentleman and his very agreeable lady, the following address was read, which will more fully explain the object of the visit:

REV. SIR.—We are here to-night as a deputation from the residents of Cedar Hill and vicinity, to offer congratulations and express our best wishes.

We do most heartily congratulate you on your recent marriage. We cordially offer yourself and Mrs. McRae our best wishes for future happiness and continued prosperity. We take this occasion to express our high esteem for you as a gentleman and friend, and also our appreciation of your work as our pastor, together with our sense of obligation and thankfulness for your faithful service and your kind interest in our welfare.

As a token of our good will and as a memento of our friendship, please to accept this purse from your congregation at Cedar Hill, and may the giver of all good, "From Whom cometh down every good and perfect gift," deal bountifully with you both, that you may be blessed and be a blessing.

Signed in the name of the congregation at Cedar Hill.

Here followed the names of the ladies and gentlemen of the deputation:

Rev. Mr. McRae made a suitable reply referring in feeling terms to the unvaried kindness and friendship shown him by the people of Cedar Hill. He thanked his visitors in behalf of Mrs. McRae for their kind words as well as for their valuable gift.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The City of Topeka, bound north, will not call here until to-morrow morning.

The Montserrat called at the outer wharf to-day on her way to Departure Bay to load coal.

The new steamer for the Bon Acord Packing Company is now under way at Clark & Watson's shipyard.

The coal laden ship Commodore, bound for Frisco, was towed into Royal Roads last night.

The stiff breeze of last evening made it rather difficult for the City of Kingston in getting out of harbor.

The Chilian ship Lake Leman anchored in the Royal Roads this morning from Valparaiso bound for Moodyville to load lumber.

The bark Willie Reed has left Moodyville with a full cargo, consisting of 200,830 feet of flooring and 828,283 feet of rough lumber for Valparaiso.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Arrived—Ships India and J. B. Brown, Nanaimo; steamer Oregon, Portland. Sailed—Bark Rufus E. Wood, Nanaimo.

The new steamer for Messrs. Cunningham & Son which was to have been launched yesterday morning from Clark & Watson's ways, was not taken off on account of the unfavorable weather.

The sealing schooner Venture, Capt. McLeod, returned from her spring cruise last night with 150 skins. This is the first trip Capt. McLeod has had command of a sealer, and considering the bad weather, he has made a good catch.

An item in the morning paper says that the British ship Tythonus, hence for London, salmon laden, had not been reported and was long overdue. This is incorrect as the Tythonus arrived at London on the 25th of April, all well on board.

The British steamer Wingate H. Thompson, with a crew of thirty men, sailed from Philadelphia grain laden on March 23rd, bound for Copenhagen, and has never been heard from. The owners and agents have given up all hopes, and believe she has gone down with all on board.

Rev. C. T. Cocking, of Japan, will lecture in Pandora street Methodist Church on Japanese life and manners, on Friday evening, 9th instant, beginning at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be illustrated by lime light pictures, thrown on a screen 20 feet square.

The Free Press a Good Samaritan.

The TIMES man received the information about the alleged diphtheria in Nanaimo from one of Nanaimo's foremost young men who also wears lenses, which must have been anything but accurately adjusted to his sight last Saturday. The TIMES man acknowledges that he saw things in a very rosy light when his Nanaimo friends carried him on board the waiting train and so carefully sat him upright in the corner of the seat; but he denies that his auricular organs were out of order some hours earlier when he was listening to the tale of the diphtheria epidemic. He has since been waiting in fear and trembling for the first dread symptoms of the terribly contagious disease, ascribing their absence to the liberal use he made of Nanaimo antidotes; but now the reason of his continued good health is plainly apparent, as there was no contagious disease there. Thanks good Free Press for removing this terrible anxiety.
